Dear Friends and Soon-to-be Friends,

Welcome to the every five-year gathering of JASPA! Before we formally welcome you please keep the following prayer, attributed to Saint Ignatius, in your heart …

Dear Lord, teach me to be generous.

Teach me to serve you as you deserve.

To give, and not to count the cost.

To fight, and not to heed the wounds.

To labor, and not to seek reward.

Save that of knowing that I do Your will.

Passionately, the Program and Host Committees have worked tirelessly in preparation and anticipation of your arrival. Now you are here, discovering confluence, as you Reflect, Explore, and Commit to Jesuit education. May you meet new friends, engulf yourself in service, actively listen to keynote presentations and to colleagues, walk quietly among the extensive campus artwork, and discover (or re-discover) your commitment to higher education, and in particular to Jesuit learning.

We wholeheartedly welcome you to JASPA’s Summer Institute. Like those of past institutes we welcome you to this important community gathering as we collectively unravel and deepen our understanding of the values of Saint Ignatius!

Peace to each of you.

Best Practices of Engaging Alumni--Magis: Alumni Committed for Mission
Busch Student Center 253D

Dedicated to deepening the life-long formation of alumni of Jesuit institutions, Magis: Alumni Committed for Mission was established at Seattle University in 2006. Through collaborative leadership and partnerships, Magis strives to foster a sense of connectedness and community among alumni while engaging them in integrated programs that cultivate their spirituality, leadership, and service in the Ignatian tradition. Come and learn about best practices of engaging alumni, as well as Magis’ signature programs and dreams for the future!

Creative Tensions Between Student Affairs and Catholic Identity
Busch Student Center 253A

We acknowledge and embrace the creative tension inherent in our role, especially when serving students who hold variant interpretations of Catholic teaching” (Preamble of Principles of Good Practice for Student Affairs at Catholic Colleges and Universities, 2007). Some of the most difficult and challenging issues related to Catholic identity are experienced in areas, programs, activities, and student organizations supervised by student affairs professionals. A challenge for student affairs professionals is understanding, appreciating, and celebrating the enduring values of Catholic colleges and universities amidst the ethos, values, and impact of contemporary society and student culture. These tensions provide opportunities for greater understanding of the Catholic tradition and responding to the tensions in creative and educational ways.

Exploring Meaning, Purpose, and Calling With the Millennial Generation
Busch Student Center 251B

How can university career counselors connect with millennial students and alumni around questions of values and vocation? With ipods in one hand and cell phones in the other, millennials may be technology experts but they risk losing touch with who they are. This session will offer several approaches and tools to help millennial students and alumni connect with deeper aspects of themselves and their career journeys.

Presenter: Elizabeth Thompson Santa Clara University
Exploring the Discussion of Sexual Responsibility on Jesuit Campuses
Busch Student Center 251A

The Gender Relations and Awareness Coalition at Loyola University Maryland was established in fall 2008 to dialogue and review what is being done on campus related to sexual responsibility and self respect. Like on many faith-based campuses, it has been difficult to move beyond conversation and into a larger community initiative. Join members of this committee to discuss the challenges and opportunities of having conversations about sexual responsibility on Jesuit-Catholic campuses, in addition to exchanging successful strategies and models.

Presenters: Kim Becker, Kate Grubb Clark
Loyola University Maryland

Holistic Student Development: Senior Legacy Symposium at Saint Louis University
Busch Student Center 254

In Jesuit education we often talk about our holistic educational approach, the intersection of our intellect, the heart, the body, and one’s spirit. The Senior Legacy Symposium allows senior students to reflect upon, and present their learning in multiple and inter-related Five Dimensions of the Saint Louis University experience (student learning outcomes-focused areas of growth/development). This program will highlight the goals, history and purpose of the Symposium, a recipient of the 2009 JASPA Ignatian Medal for an Outstanding Campus Program.

It’s Good to be BAD: Late Night Alcohol-Alternative Programming
Busch Student Center 253C

It’s good to be BAD...at least that’s what they say at Saint Louis University. Billikens After Dark (BAD) is a new alcohol alternative program on SLU’s campus that has had much success. This presentation will outline the structure of a late night alcohol alternative program and EXPLORE ways of creating, or re-vamping, a late night program on your campus.

Saint Louis University
Keeping Current Our Commitment to Students
Busch Student Center 352

Professional development is important to offer to all staff members, however with the current economic situation it may be difficult to send everyone to conferences to get that professional development. Fairfield University has found a few creative ways on how to continue to support professional development opportunities for all staff members. This session will allow participants to explore the different options that Fairfield uses and hear about the outcome of the offerings. There will also be time for participants to share any professional development concepts that they use at their respective institutions as well.

Presenters: Elissa Carroll, Deborah Cady Melzer
Fairfield University

Millennial Parents on Campus: Reflecting on how to Discover Confluence with this Constituency
Busch Student Center 353

This session will reflect upon parental involvement of today’s college students. The presentation will explore how parents have impacted characteristics generally associated with today’s Millennial generation; the types of involvement parents currently have with their children and with colleges and universities; the impact of involvement on student development; administrator and media perception; the call for parent involvement in their child’s education by the Catholic Church; and the new parental involvement trends professionals are seeing at the workplace with recent graduates.

Presenter: Greer Jason
Fordham University

Student Learning Outcomes: Ready, Set, Write
Busch Student Center 256

During this session participants will gain an understanding of what learning outcomes are, the purposes of creating learning outcomes for their programs, and how to write them. Participants will be offered examples of learning outcomes, learn a formula for writing outcomes, and begin applying the knowledge they gain by practicing writing their own learning outcomes for an institutional specific program. Participants must be prepared to share a new or existing program in which learning outcomes need to be developed.

Whiteness, Racial Equity, and Jesuit Education: The call to the confluence of awareness and action
Busch Student Center 351

This interactive session provides an opportunity to reflect on our awareness of how whiteness, as an individual and systemic presence in student affairs, impacts our students, our colleagues and our Jesuit mission. The presenter will share highlights from qualitative research done on this topic at a Jesuit university. Participants will dialogue about experiences of whiteness and how it can impact authentic integration of racial differences on campus. Practical tools for facilitating campus discussion and taking action will be shared.

Addressing Risky Drinking by Male College Students through Screening & Brief Interventions
Busch Student Center 256

In this session, prevention practitioners will present a stepped-care protocol used to proactively and voluntarily engage 291 male first-year students in a brief alcohol screening and one or more motivational enhancement interventions. Male students’ engagement in and reactions to the recruitment tactics, screening and interventions will be discussed, along with the project’s collaboration with academic and Student Affairs departments. Changes in frequency and quantity of consumption, negative alcohol-related consequences, and readiness to change at post-test will be presented. Additionally, the implications for broader, collaborative prevention practices will be considered.

Creighton’s RSP Program
Busch Student Center 253C

Creighton’s Ratio Studiorum Program (RSP) provides an innovative approach to first and second-year advising and support. This program, rooted in the original freshmen seminar course and redesigned four years ago, uses faculty, students, and administrators in a collaborative way to provide support, advising, and orientation for first and second-year students. Learn how Student Services at Creighton participates in this University-wide effort, works with faculty advisors and two distinct groups of student leaders, and provides transitional programming for students.

Presenters: Joseph Ecklund, Jim Bretl
Creighton University
Educational Initiatives….Not Just Another Name for Programming
Busch Student Center 251B

Educational Initiatives are planned opportunities, experiences, events, activities, discussions, or passive materials that begin, continue, or promote learning that is consistent with the CORE values of the Department. The term Educational Initiative is not a fancy term for ‘Program’. A program is an Educational Initiative but not all Educational Initiatives are programs.

Explore: Student Learning through Academic Initiatives
Busch Student Center 253B

Come explore with other schools ways to impact student learning through academic initiatives such as Learning Communities and other programs that foster campus collaborations. This roundtable will allow schools to share what is occurring on their home campus and to learn from each other. The roundtable topics will include Learning Communities and other academic initiatives, how these programs impacted housing assignment systems and/or staffing/training, key collaborators/partners needed for these programs, identified challenges and solutions, etc. Attendees will be able to share and ask questions to assist them in their campus planning around these academic initiatives.

Ignatian Perspectives on Guiding the Quarterlifer’s Search for Meaning
Busch Student Center 253A

What is the meaning of my life? Who am I? Where am I headed? These are the questions of the “quarterlife crisis.” In this interactive session we will work together to identify ways to assist students in meeting the meaning challenges they face. Based on their new book, presenters will offer a theory of meaning-making stages in the quarterlife and discuss innovative pedagogies that capitalize on Ignatian pedagogy and spirituality to guide students to meaning.

Our Shared Mission of Developing Leaders for Others: An Analysis and Discussion of MSL Catholic Consortium Findings
Busch Student Center 253D
As Jesuit institutions, we have a shared mission to develop leaders who will serve others. This session will share findings from the 2006 and 2009 Multi-Institutional Study of Leadership (MSL) Catholic Consortium as a way to begin to understand the extent to which we are fulfilling this mission. Based on the central principles of social responsibility and change for the common good in the Social Change Model of Leadership Development, the MSL is the largest national study of college student leadership and includes assessment of eight core values that describe students’ level of self-awareness and ability to work with others to create change.

Student Mediation and Advocacy. A Confluence of Practice and Thought - Challenging Us to Respond in Manners Consistent with our Jesuit Identity.
Busch Student Center 353

Civil and criminal courts have seen merit in Mediation; its societal and educational benefits are proven in virtually every context. These concepts are a natural fit for our Jesuit institutions, as they relate to student conduct, community living, student organizations, Greek organizations, athletic teams and within the classroom. This session will explore the inception of Saint Louis University’s Mediation and Advocacy program, engage discussion of theoretical concepts and their ties to Jesuit ideals, identify resources to be utilized in these methods of conflict resolution and explore resulting assessment feedback from the affected community. A simulated mediation and group discussion will also be included.

Presenters: Alex Antal, Rebecca Magruder, JD

Supporting and Assisting Pregnant or Parenting Students at a Jesuit Institution
Busch Student Center 254

Catholic institutions’ procedures support church teaching in relation to sexuality, but when a student at a Jesuit institution is pregnant, do we effectively communicate our pro-life teaching by offering support to these students? Various articles say that we do not, but U.S. Jesuit provincials state that “to be pro-life is to be pro-woman” in Standing for the Unborn (2003). This roundtable session will provide a time for Jesuit educators to come together to discuss the issue and share ways to expand our assistance for pregnant or parenting students.

Who Am I Called to Be? Non-Catholic Professionals Navigate the Unfamiliar World of St. Ignatius and the Jesuit Identity
Busch Student Center 352

Join us as we examine the transition and adjustment that new, non-affiliated professionals undergo as they enter the world of Jesuit Mission and Identity. Together we’ll reflect on the needs, expectations, and uncertainties experienced by new professionals on their quest for success within a Jesuit community, and explore suggestions, support, and best practices that our seasoned professionals could in turn offer. This interactive and eye-opening dialogue will be beneficial for any professional entering or working within the arena of Ignatian Spirituality.

Pick-up Location: Laclede Street, south edge of Village Apartments

6 - 9 p.m. Dinner and evening at City Museum

In support of efforts of sustainability, JASPA 2010 will spend an evening at the City Museum. Housed in the 600,000 square-foot former International Shoe Company, the museum is an eclectic mixture of children’s playground, funhouse, surrealist pavilion, and architectural marvel made out of unique, found objects. The brainchild of internationally acclaimed artist Bob Cassilly, a classically trained sculptor and serial entrepreneur, the museum opened for visitors in 1997 to the riotous approval of young and old alike.

Cassilly and his longtime crew of 20 artisans have constructed the museum from the very stuff of the city; and, as a result, it has urban roots deeper than any other institutions’. Reaching no farther than municipal borders for its reclaimed building materials, CITY MUSEUM boasts features such as old chimneys, salvaged bridges, construction cranes, miles of tile, and even two abandoned planes!

Appropriate attire is casual. Closed-toed shoes are recommended to fully enjoy the experience of the City Museum.

Bright Idea Grants: Changing the World, One Innovative Idea at a Time
Busch Student Center 253D

The Bright Idea Grant program at Saint Louis University is designed to inspire students to recognize the potential impact they may have in the world and ultimately fulfill the Jesuit mission of being men and women for others. This session will explore the history and details of designing a social entrepreneurial grant program and its potential implications on a college campus and around the world.

Presenter: Todd J. Foley
Saint Louis University

Collaboration in Ministry and Mission in the Dominican Republic
Busch Student Center 353

The Institute for Latin American Concern, ILAC, at Creighton University, Omaha, NE, engages students from Jesuit and Catholic Universities in Ignatian-inspired principles. The ILAC Center in the Dominican Republic allows students to grow personally and spiritually. There is often a paradigm shift of thinking from “we are going to help” to “we received much more than we gave” during the program. We will discuss and demonstrate our collaborative efforts and experiences over the last 30 years.

Presenters: Joseph D. Lynch, Teresa L. Lynch
Creighton University

Coming Together In Service: Our Vision and History
Busch Student Center 251A

What do our Judeo Christian scriptures and our Ignatian documents teach us about service? Why do we do it, and how does it make us the Body of Christ? Our presentation and discussion will focus on the underlying spirituality of service in our Jesuit institutions and how service helps us to fulfill our Ignatian charism. We will reflect on our own commitment to service and the spirituality that supports that commitment.

Presenter: Dino Entac
Loyola Marymount University

Engaging first year students through pre-orientation programs
Busch Student Center 253A

This interactive session will provide an opportunity for conversations amongst colleagues about the benefits of pre-fall orientation programs intertwined with collaboration from various offices and divisions. How can we create opportunities for first year students to transition smoothly into our respective institutions? We will examine an overview of each specific pre-orientation program, describe how our pre-orientation programs collaborate, highlight the benefits of pre-orientation programs and, most importantly, give recommendations for how other schools could start their own pre-orientation programs.

The Campus Kitchens Project: Creating Sustainability, Combating Hunger, Educating Students
Busch Student Center 253C

Teach. Reach. Feed. Lead. This session will inform participants about the Campus Kitchens Project. Founded at Saint Louis University in 2001, this unique model of food sustainability and hunger relief has since spread to 20 other schools around the nation. Campus Kitchens rescues food that would normally be thrown away by campus dining services and local grocers, turns this food into nutritious meals, and distributes them to low-income families, senior citizens, and transitional housing shelters, all the while educating students and creating leadership opportunities. But this is only one of many functions that the Campus Kitchen serves. Learn more about this revolutionary program, and how your university can start one!

The Reverend William J. Byron, S.J., is University Professor of Business and Society at St. Joseph’s University in Philadelphia. He was president of St. Joseph’s Preparatory School in Philadelphia from 2006 to 2008. Prior to that time, his expansive list of positions included research professor at the Sellinger School of Business and Management at Loyola College in Maryland; interim president of Loyola University New Orleans; pastor of Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Washington, D.C.; Distinguished Professor of the Practice of Ethics at the McDonough School of Business at Georgetown University; rector of the Georgetown Jesuit Community; president of The Catholic University of America; president of the University of Scranton; dean of Arts and Sciences at Loyola University of New Orleans and various teaching positions in his field of economics and social ethics.

Father Byron writes a syndicated bi-weekly column (“Looking Around”) for Catholic News Service Syndicate. He is the author of many books, including Jesuit Saturdays: Sharing the Ignatian Spirit with Lay Colleagues and Friends.

Father Byron holds a doctorate in economics from the University of Maryland, two theology degrees from Woodstock College, a bachelor’s degree in philosophy and a master’s in economics from Saint Louis University and a certificate in educational management from Harvard. He was the 1999 recipient of the Association of Catholic Colleges and Universities’ Theodore M. Hesburgh Award for his contributions to the advancement of Catholic higher education. In that same year Father Byron received the Council of Independent Colleges’ Academic Leadership Award. He holds 30 honorary degrees.

Explore Ways to Expand Transition Programs Beyond the First-Year
Busch Student Center 253B

Students experience a lot of transition in their first-year of college and we have many programs designed to help them through that process, but change continues throughout their collegiate experience. Saint Louis University works with students through the transitions of all four years through the First-Year Experience, Sophomore/Junior-Year Experience, and Senior-Year Experience programs. Learn about SLU’s programs, how we got to where we are now, and future goals. Come prepared to also share successes and challenges from your campus.

Finding God in The Hangover
Busch Student Center 352

Who am I? Whose am I? Who am I called to be? These are the core questions we challenge students with at Jesuit Institutions, but we live in a world of seemingly inconsistent messages. How do we explore the relation between these messages of decadence and debauchery found in favorites like Gossip Girl and The Hangover with the Jesuit values we’re trying to instill in our students? This session will explore how popular media was used as a launching pad for programming and student discussions at Fairfield University this year.

How the results from Multi-institutional Study of Leadership Transformed Leadership Programs on our Jesuit Campuses
Busch Student Center 254

The Multi-Institutional Study of Leadership is a national survey of leadership development among college students. The study examines the role of higher education in developing leadership capacities. Loyola Marymount University, Loyola University Chicago, Seattle University, and The University of Scranton each participated in the 2009 survey. Learn how these Jesuit universities used the Multi-Institutional Study of Leadership survey results to transform their leadership programs. This will be a highly interactive session with ample opportunity for questions and discussions.

Perspectives: How do you view the world?
Busch Student Center 251A

Santa Clara University has developed a three part diversity experience designed for student leaders. Perspective experiences are co-curricular experimental learning based activities. The activities were designed by various student affairs practitioners and social justice scholars. The experience design can be adjusted based on the needs of the student organization and strengths of the facilitation. The purpose of Perspectives is to develop student leaders into change agents. Through informed leadership we will be able to create a climate of awareness and expectation of the various perspectives our students bring and develop while they are a part of the campus community.

Senior-Level Student Affairs Administrators Interactions with Parents of Traditional-age Undergraduate students
Busch Student Center 253A

“Student affairs professionals are committed to educating the whole student and integrating student life and learning” (NASPA: Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education, 2009). This commitment does not waiver in the wake of increased parental involvement in the life of Millennial students. Parents serve as advisors, consultants and advocates for today’s undergraduate college student. This presentation will share the results of a qualitative doctoral study that was designed to explore and to describe the interactions between senior-level student affairs administrators and the parents of traditional-age undergraduate students. It seeks to answer the question, How do these interactions impact the functional role of senior-level student affairs administrators? ”

Career Development as a Retention Tool: Early Intervention for Incoming Deciding Freshmen
Busch Student Center 253B
Learn about an early intervention program designed to engage first year “deciding” students in the career development process prior to arriving on campus in the fall. The program increases awareness of the career decision-making process, allows incoming freshmen to begin their own career development, and may also serve as a retention tool for the University.

Challenging Pregaming Practices in Entering Freshmen
Busch Student Center 352
As of September of 2009, Santa Clara University became a performance site for a $291,000.00 US Department of Education grant to prevent high-risk drinking among college students. The intervention specifically targets “pregaming” (drinking before going out to an occasion where alcohol is served). The intervention includes a peer group program that is facilitated by SCU students who deliver emergency medical technician (EMT) services on campus. The presenters will describe the intervention, assessment plan, and progress to date of the evidence based intervention.

Does Mission Matter? Exploring the Relationship Between the Jesuit Mission of Higher Education and the New Student Affairs Professional
Busch Student Center 253C

The “Does Mission Matter? An Exploration of the Relationship Between Jesuit Mission and the New Student Affairs Professional” study examined the relationship new professionals working in student affairs have with the Jesuit, Catholic mission of the college or university where they are employed. During this interactive session, participants will learn about the research findings, explore strategies for improving new staff orientation and mission education programs and building confidence in new professionals surrounding Jesuit, Catholic mission. Session participants will discuss best practices for new staff orientation and mission education programming.

Jesuit Mission in Action: Developing student learning outcome-based programming
Busch Student Center 253A

Learning Reconsidered challenges institutions to develop meaningful student learning outcomes, apply relevant programs, and assess related learning. While relevant to all campuses, this process is particularly important for Jesuit institutions, as we intentionally connect student learning to our Jesuit mission. This program will discuss developing learning outcomes to guide transition programs for students as they develop, freshman through senior year. Strategies for connecting outcomes to campus values and mission, as well as intentional programming addressing outcomes will be discussed.

Confluence by Design: Exploring living & learning strategies from a joint residence life and campus planning & design perspective
Busch Student Center 353

For students to bring academic learning outside of the classroom, university campuses need to create spaces that promote academic engagement and intellectual thought. At Fairfield University, the Departments of Residence Life and Facilities Management have worked closely to create a Housing Master Plan that is especially designed to increase student learning outside of the classroom. During this session, you will learn about the process of developing a living and learning housing master plan and moving through its pre-design, design and implementation phases.

Counseling Centers on Jesuit Campus: Unique issues, concerns and discussions
Busch Student Center 352

Providing counseling services to college students on a Jesuit campus often presents several unique challenges. While counseling professionals have their own set of ethics and guidelines to follow, being on Jesuit campuses can sometimes blur some important issues. How/do we reach out to GLBTIQ students? How/do we talk about suicide? How/do we talk about relationships and pre-marital sex? How/do we talk about safe-sex? While there are obviously no definitive answers, we’d love to open the floor to discuss these and other pertinent issues. Dr. Chaney Givens, director, and Dr. Jina Jensen, assistant director, from the Office of Counseling and Personal Development at Regis University would invite any and all counseling center staff to talk about these issues and see what our campus is doing and how other campuses are handling these issues.

Creating and Implementing a Campus-Specific Model of Student Leadership Development
Busch Student Center 253D

Institutions often use existing models to guide student leadership development programs. This session explores the process of developing and implementing an innovative campus-specific model of student leadership development based on current literature, grounded in Jesuit mission and values, and providing departments with a framework for implementing and assessing leadership education initiatives across campus. Representatives from Marquette University will share information on their collaborative division-wide process for creating such a model, and engage session participants in considering opportunities for their campus.

Cura personalis: Coordinated approaches to individual student needs
Busch Student Center 253A

A cornerstone of Jesuit philosophy is ‘Cura Personalis’, care for the person. We know each of our entering students is unique, with individualized needs. These needs can sometimes impact a student’s ability to successfully matriculate. This session will highlight one institution’s efforts to support students in need through a variety of intervention methods including the Weekly Incident Debrief, Behavioral Concerns Committee, Eating Disorder Prevention and Alcohol Vision Teams, Mapworks assessment and Early Warning System, and provide an opportunity to share best practices and discuss the relevance and approaches for other institutions.

Presenters: Leanna Fenneberg, Ph.D., Scott Smith, Ph.D., Shelley Sawalich, Ph.D.               Saint Louis University
Finding a Mutual Mission: Jesuit values and fraternity/sorority life
Busch Student Center 251A

At first glance, it may appear that some student organizations function without a focus on the Jesuit educational mission of our universities. As fraternity and sorority advisors, Kirstin Leih and Eric Immel see both the good and bad in student organizations, and have firsthand experience in using the Jesuit values as directional resources. The purpose of this program is to explore the Jesuit educational mission of our institutions, and provide attendees with tools to empower students to apply these values in their student organizations.

Presenters: Eric Immel, Kirstin Leih
Creighton University, Saint Louis University

Mission Possible: Creating a unified student leader training
Busch Student Center 351

Each summer, departments gear up to welcome back their paraprofessional staff and train them on the necessary skills to be an effective student leader. Departments within Student Life at Loyola Marymount University have combined efforts to create a centralized training for all of their leaders. This effort has allowed professional staff to develop a unified approach to training, based in the University’s mission and leadership values. Come learn how your institution can combine resources and collaborate to make training a divisional initiative.

Presenters: Briana Maturi, Shannon Taylor
Loyola Marymount University

Supporting a Straight Ally Campaign
Busch Student Center 253C

Catholic church teaching calls for respecting the human dignity of GLBT persons. Yet on Catholic campuses student affairs professionals often feel constrained by this teaching. The presentation will focus on what can be done: training straight allies to reach out to GLBT students with compassion and friendship.

Presenters: Lisa Reiter, Donna Bess Myers
Saint Louis University

University Response to Serious Mental Health Needs
Busch Student Center 253B

How can counseling services assist and support student affairs personnel in working together with students with serious mental illness? Jesuit Colleges and Universities face a challenge supporting students with more serious mental illnesses: Bi-Polar disorder, Schizophrenia, Borderline Personality Disorder, Suicidality, Self-harm behaviors, Eating Disorders, and others. Staff from Creighton and Saint University will present programs for eating disorders and treatment. An open round table discussion of concerns, trends, and best practices will be the focus of this interactive session.

Presenters: Michael R. Kelley, Ph.D., Robert Poirier, Psy.D.
Creighton University, Saint Louis University
We Can Have Sustained Dialogue but How Can We “Commit” to Action?
Busch Student Center 251B

Can we move beyond dialogue and “commit” to social justice action? After gaining momentum with a great Sustained Dialogue Series, the Fordham University Office of Multicultural Affairs collaborated with Diversity Peer Educators to take action by helping students gain self-confidence and skills to be effective change agents speaking up around issues of injustice. In keeping with the Jesuit and Catholic fundamentals of honoring and revering the dignity and uniqueness of each person, we hoped to create an inclusive environment. Join us to find out how it began, where we are now, and how we sustain the momentum. Come share your great ideas and campus success stories.

JASPA 2010 Sustainability

In our stewardship of creation, JASPA 2010 is working to make the institute as environmentally friendly as possible. We are proactively seeking ways to reduce our use of non-renewable resources as we strive to live in balance with our natural resources.

Expectations for participants:

- Be prepared for few, if any, session handouts.

Expectations for presenters:

- Make available PowerPoint and other presentation materials electronically.
- Minimize the distribution of handouts for sessions, and, if necessary, produce handouts on recycled paper.

Expectations for the institute’s host and program committees:

- Provide daily institute updates orally or electronically, and not in print.
- Provide recycling opportunities for participants on site.
- Limit amount of paper and when required used recycled materials.
- In the context of Dining Service provide locally grown foods when available.
- Provide water bottles for participants, and have water filling stations available.
- Minimize the use of cans and bottles for meals and breaks.
- Utilize food rescue program via Campus Kitchen for unused food items.
- Utilize sweatshop free vendors for purchasing of materials when possible.
- Host the off-campus dinner at the City Museum, with a focus on sustainability.
- Conduct assessment and survey techniques electronically following the institute.

Health Services

If you have any health issues during your stay at Saint Louis University, please contact Student Health and Counseling at 314-977-2323. Staff are available 24 hours a day and are located in Marchetti Tower East, which is located at 3518 Laclede Avenue across the street from the Busch Student Center.
Hospitality Services

Stop by the hospitality room in the Busch Student Center, Suite 237, to enjoy a snack, connect with old and new colleagues, and to ask questions of a JASPA volunteer. Questions can also be directed to the information desk located in the second floor of the Busch Student Center.

Internet Access/Technology

SLU is a wireless campus. All of our classrooms and residence halls are wi-fi ready. All you need to do is connect to the internet, accept the terms and conditions as a SLU guest, and surf away!

Didn’t bring your laptop? Computers are available in the Busch Student Center, Tech Service Center (Room 137).

Printing is available in Busch Student Center 137 from 7 am-7 pm. There is also a coin-operated machine available outside of the center that is accessible at any time.

Lost and Found

In the case of lost items, please inquire at the Information Desk, located in the first floor of the Busch Student Center. After hours, lost and found items can be directed to the Department of Public Safety, located on the first floor of DuBourg Hall, 221 North Grand, Room 9.

Parking

Each registrant requesting parking tags at the time of registration should have received a temporary hangtag at check in to park in Laclede Garage. The hangtag must be displayed on the car’s rearview mirror to prevent a ticket. Ticketing may occur if:

1. the hangtag is not displayed
2. the hangtag is expired
3. information on the hangtag is altered

For those guests needing parking, please go to Parking and Card Services to purchase an overnight parking hangtag, located in DuBourg Hall, 221 North Grand Blvd., Room 33.

Shuttles and Departure Information

Check out time: Friday, July 23, 6 am to 12 noon at the Village B Apartment awning. Grab and Go breakfast-to-go will be available at the check-out desk (located at the same location as registration check in). If you need to check out prior to Friday at 6 am, please call 314-486-4947.

Shuttle Service: Shuttles will be available on Friday, July 23, from 6 am until 12 noon, with a drop off at the Metrolink Civic Center station for your return trip to either the airport or train station. Please note that you will need to leave campus approximately 2.5 to 3 hours prior to your departure to ensure ample time for check in. Please stop by the Hospitality Room located at Busch Student Center, Room 237, by noon on Wednesday, July 21, to sign up for the departure shuttle service.

About Saint Louis University (SLU)

Saint Louis University is a Catholic, Jesuit university ranked among the top research institutions in the nation. The University fosters the intellectual and character development of more than 13,000 students. Founded in 1818, it is the oldest university west of the Mississippi and the second oldest Jesuit university in the United States. Through teaching, research, health care and community service, Saint Louis University has provided one-of-a-kind education, leadership and service for nearly two centuries.

Mission

The Mission of Saint Louis University is the pursuit of truth for the greater glory of God and for the service of humanity. The University seeks excellence in the fulfillment of its corporate purposes of teaching, research, health care and service to the community. It is dedicated to leadership in the continuing quest for understanding of God's creation and for the discovery, dissemination and integration of the values, knowledge and skills required to transform society in the spirit of the Gospels. As a Catholic, Jesuit university, this pursuit is motivated by the inspiration and values of the Judeo-Christian tradition and is guided by the spiritual and intellectual ideals of the Society of Jesus.

What is a Billiken?

The Billiken is a symbol of good luck that was a national craze in the early 1900s. In 1908, Florence Pretz, an art teacher, received a patent for her version of an ancient Asian figure. Later, the Billiken Co. of Chicago adopted the likeness, giving it its eventual name. Manufactured as a bank and statuette, the Billiken reached its peak of popularity in 1911.

It became associated with SLU at the height of Billikenmania and can be traced back to sportswriters who thought the SLU football coach, John Bender, bore a striking resemblance to the impish creature. One sportswriter drew a cartoon of Bender as a Billiken, posted it in a drugstore window and tabbed the football team "Bender's Billikens." The public took up the name, and it soon became the official nickname of all SLU teams.
